The tale runs somewhat as follows :—A lady had a pet dog of which she was extremely fond, but whose length of tail was in heropinion out of proportion to his body. Afte arranged under one Alphabet in the strictest thinking the matter over for some time, she finally decided to have the tail cut off. She accordingly gave the necessary orders to her footman, who was entrusted with the tack of amputation. Soon afterwards the lady heard the cries of the animal, and was deeply affected thereby, and the sounds of pain continuing for what seemed an unreasonable length of time she was at last moved to go and ascertain the cause, when, to her consternation, she found that the footman, thinking it a pity the dog should lose its tail all at once, was cutting it off inch by inch. We are reminded of this story by the action ling on a pointed rock. of the Hongkong Government, with respect to the quarantine regulations. That quaranis now generally admitted, but the Government cannot bring itself to abandon the ancient and barbarous system all once, so every year it issues new regulations in which the quarantine period is made shorter than in the previous year. In 1884 the quarantine period was fixed at Scales of Commissions and Charges adopted by ten days, last year it was reduced to five, and in the regulations published on Saturday last it is further reduced to three. This is a case in which the old saying that half a kong STAMP DUTIES, also tables of loaf is better than no bread applies, but we hope the Government will not wait until next year before finally throwing the quaranof closely printed matter, to which reference is tine system over altogether. No further intelligence respecting the difficulty that has arisen between China and United States has yet come to hand. The cloud has long been lowering on the horizon, other high officials. but it has assumed a deeper tinge rather suddenly in consequence of the action of the Chinese Government in demanding an indemnity. As we have already intimated, this demand is reconcilable with reason, and has its precedent in the claim recently made by foreigners in Canton upon the Chinese Government for compensation for losses suffered through the anti-foreign outbreak in September, 1883, when a great part of Shameen was destroyed. On second thoughts the Washington Government will, we believe, see the justice of acknowledging award fitting compensation. The Chinese passenger trade contributes to maintain the regular steamship lines between San Francisco and Eastern Asia, and its cessation would materially affect their earnings. Nor must it be forgotten that California owes much of its rapid progress in wealth and importance to Chinese labour. The great Pacific Railroad was constructed in great part by the aid of Chinese coolies. Chinese supplied the Californian domestic labour market for years when other

Mine Susume (or Minaz Shemu), the Japanese detective who was convicted of unlawfully killing a Chinaman named Wai Egno, in the Chinese Settlement at Shinchi on the 15th of September, imprisonment on the 24th of January, 1884, was released from custody on the 15th February -after having served only two years and three weeks of his sentence! It will doubtless be remembered that the prosecution was instituted and carried on by the Chinese authorities, and that the judgment was submitted to the Chinese Minister in Tokio, and his approval obtained, before it was put into execution. The decision of the Judge was that the prisoner should undergo imprisonment for five years, and that the Japanese Government should pay an indemnity of $4,000. Had the original sentence been for two years only, it is very questionable if the Chinese Minister would have accepted it; and it would now be interesting to learn whether the Chicese authorities have been consulted with reference to the prisoner's release before the original term had half expired, or whether his punishment has so largely curtailed solely on the authority of the native officials. The steamer Okawa-maru, a small wooden coasting steamer, built at Hyogo and engined at the Mitsu Bishi Co.'s Works at Akunoura, had a successful trial-trip on the 14th February. She is fitted with engines of 100 h.p. ind., and 24 h.p. nom. She is owned by Mr. K. Fukagawa, a well known coasting ship-owner, and is the second vessel of his fleet built at Hyogo and engined at Akunoura, to augment which, we believe, unother, larger than the two former, is already on the stocks. As Mr. Fukagawa's ship-yard at Hyogo is situated on the banks of a river, in close proximity to extensive forests of suitable timber, owned by himself, he is consequently in a position to construct them to advantage so far as economy is concerned. The concentration system which they have lately applied to their tactics, answers so little to the purpose that the enemy laugh at it, and entor the lines by night in small parties and murder the outposts almost at their own discretion. The Achinese have much improved in strategy, and for several weeks have occasionally attacked the Dutch lines at Olehleh from the other side of the river whither a portion of them seem to have removed their operations, but from which nothing energetic has been attempted to drive them. They have become more confident of their own power, and in fact, laugh at the military provess of the white man. few weeks ago, a Chinese Wangkang said to belong to Penang, lying in the river drifted on a bank during a gale of wind. The Achinese fired on her. The guardship sent boats to fetch her off, at the same time shelling the enemy, who continued firing for some time. The boats succeeded in bringing the Wangkang off, and put her on shore on the Dutch side, as she was leaky At night, however, the Achinese crossed the river and carried off the craft and the next morning defiantly hoisted the Achinese flag on her. At the sight of this the whole Dutch force present on the scene shelled the enemy, and again sont boats to retake the Wangkang but the Achinese stood their ground. The Dutch find ing their attempts fruitless gave up the game. but sent a couple of shells into the craft in order to make her useless to the enemy. The same day the Ackinese made another attempt to take a prow that was going into the river, but she was

A considerable sensation was caused in thi Colony on the evening of the 2nd instaby the report, which quickly became common conversation, that the homeward bound P. and O. mail steamer, the Thames, had gone ashore, on her way out from the harbour, in the Ly-ee-moon Pass. The Thames left her buoy at about quarter past four o'clock that afternoon, homeward bound, and steamed slowly through the harbour to the Ly-ee-moon Pass, a route commonly taken when the steamer's are heading in that direction at starting. The whole day had been somewhat thick, at that time a heavy for was beginning to settle down over the harbour. The first news that arrived of the disaster was a telegram forwarded from Shau-ki-wan Police Station to the Central Station, stating that the vessel had gone ashore on a spit just, beyond Shanki-wan called A Kung Ngam, and that there were two feet of water in her forehold.
